Aims and Scope. The aim of Compositio Mathematica is to publish first-class mathematical research papers. By tradition the journal focuses on papers in the mainstream of pure mathematics. This includes the fields of algebra, number theory, topology, algebraic and differential geometry and (geometric) analysis. Papers on other topics are welcome if they are of interest not only to specialists. All contributions are required to meet high standards of quality and originality and are carefully screened by experts in the field.
