Fifty Years of the Law Commissions

The Dynamics of Law Reform

Edited by Matthew Dyson, James Lee and Shona Wilson Stark

This book brings together past and present law commissioners, judges, practitioners, academics and law reformers to analyse the past, present and future of the Law Commissions in the United Kingdom and beyond. Its internationally recognised authors bring a wealth of experience and insight into how and why law reform does and should take place, covering statutory and non-statutory reform from national and international perspectives. The chapters of the book developed from papers given at a conference to mark the fiftieth anniversary of the Law Commissions Act 1965.

Matthew Dyson is a Fellow in Law at Trinity College, Cambridge. James Lee is Senior Lecturer in Private Law at the Dickson Poon School of Law, King's College London. Shona Wilson Stark is a Fellow in Law at Christ's College, Cambridge.

Anonymous Speech

Literature, Law and Politics

Eric Barendt

This book discusses the different contexts in which people write anonymously or with the use of a pseudonym: novels and literary reviews, newspapers and political periodicals, graffiti, and now on the Internet. The book criticises the arguments made for a strong constitutional right to anonymous speech, though it agrees that there is a good case for anonymity in some circumstances, notably for whistle-blowing.

This is the first comprehensive study of anonymous speech to examine critically the arguments for and against anonymity. These arguments were vigorously canvassed in the nineteenth century – largely in the context of literary reviewing – and are now of enormous importance for communication on the Internet.

Eric Barendt is Emeritus Professor of Media Law at University College London.

THIRD EDITION

The Constitution of the United Kingdom

A Contextual Analysis

Peter Leyland

This acclaimed book provides a topical and contextual outline of the principles, doctrines and institutions that underpin the United Kingdom constitution. The third edition of has been comprehensively revised and updated to take account of recent constitutional developments and debates. This includes: the revised framework for devolution following the 2014 referendum in Scotland, the constitutional ramifications of the realignment of UK politics reflected in the result of the 2015 general election and the debate over the possible replacement of the Human Rights Act 1998 with a British Bill of Rights.

Peter Leyland is Professor of Public Law at SOAS, University of London.

THIRD EDITION

Evidence of Bad Character

JR Spencer

This is the third edition of JR Spencer's now well established book which seeks to explain this complex area of law for the benefit of judges, criminal practitioners and academics teaching the law of evidence.

This book, now updated to take into account a raft of new cases, offers a thorough analysis of the bad character provisions of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 in the light of the way in which they have been interpreted by the courts.

JR Spencer is Professor Emeritus of Law in the Law Faculty at the University of Cambridge.

Asian Journal of Comparative Law

Published on behalf Law Faculty, National University of Singapore

Editors

Andrew James Harding, NUS Faculty of Law, Singapore
Wang Jiangyu, NUS Faculty of Law, Singapore

The Asian Journal of Comparative Law (AsJCL) is an initiative of the Asian Law Institute (ALI), an association established by thirteen leading law schools in Asia and with a rapidly expanding membership base across Asia and in other world regions. The journal provides a forum for research and discussion of the law and legal systems of Asia, and aims to encourage and ventilate new scholarship on Asian legal issues. It embraces work that is theoretical, empirical, socio-legal, doctrinal or comparative that relates to one or more Asian legal systems. In practice Asia is defined as including East, Central, South East, and South Asia, as well as articles that compare one or more Asian legal systems with non-Asian systems. The journal seeks articles which display an intimate knowledge of Asian legal systems, and thus provides a window to the way they work in practice.

Canadian Yearbook of International Law

Published on behalf of The Canadian Society of International Law and the Canadian Council on International Law

Editors

John H. Currie, University of / Université d'Ottawa, Canada
Rene Provost, McGill University, Canada

Since its advent in 1961, the Canadian Yearbook of International Law has had three main objectives: to make available to Canadians and the international community a systematic presentation of the best Canadian and international thought on problems of international law; to promote the development and dissemination of Canadian research on international law; and to make available documents and commentaries that reveal the practice of Canadian institutions in matters of international law.

Issued annually under the auspices of the Canadian Branch of the International Law Association and the Canadian Council on International Law, the Yearbook contains articles of lasting significance in the field of international legal studies; a notes and comments section; a digest of Inter-American law; a digest of international economic law; a section on current Canadian practice in international law (including recent parliamentary declarations and Canadian treaty actions); a digest of important Canadian cases in the fields of public and private international law; and a book reviews section.
