The Hawker Siddeley Hawk is the latest of a long line of military aircraft, such as the Hart, Fury Osprey, Nimrod, Hurricane, Typhoon, Hunter and Harrier, to be designed and produced at Kingston, which is a measure of the firm's long-standing expertise in this field. Duncan Simpson, chief test pilot of HSA Kingston, describes in this issue the flight test programme of the Hawk from its first flight in August 1974 up to the end of 1975.
