

More Than Chattel

Black Women and Slavery in the Americas

Edited by David Barry Gaspar and Darlene Clark Hine

"... a much-needed volume on a neglected topic that is of great interest to scholars of women, slavery, and African American history."

—Drew Faust

Coming in Fall 1996!

Drawn from African Dwellings

Jean-Paul Bourdier and Trinh T. Minh-ha

"... a lasting monument to African architectures. ... a fine creation, a collage of marvelous graphic images, earnest research, good writing, careful thinking." —Henry Glassie

"Scholars are realizing how important it is to provide a rich, thick cultural and social setting when they attempt to explore art. ... This book does that for architecture." —Patrick R. McNaughton

Architect Jean-Paul Bourdier and cultural critic and filmmaker Trinh T. Minh-ha take us into the traditionally built dwellings of African society in this richly illustrated book. Through this "life-in-architecture" we see material evidence of a culture, its socio-economic and cosmological organization, its way of living, and its world view. 320 pages, 225 b&w photos, 141 illus. cloth $59.95

Understanding Third World Politics

Theories of Political Change and Development

B. C. Smith

A critical introduction to theories of political development and the comparative politics of the Third World, including an overview of the nature of the Third World; theories of the origins and evolution of the Third World; assessments of attempts to theorize political institutions in Third World states; and an examination of the widespread instability of these states. paper $18.95 (also in cloth $39.95)

Exploring slavery and slave society through the lives of black women. Gender was a decisive force in shaping slave society. Slave men's experiences differed from those of slave women, who were exploited both in reproductive as well as productive capacities.

The "Mfecane" Aftermath

Credulity and Skepticism in Southern African Historical Debates

Edited by Carolyn Hamilton

An important re-evaluation of the central myth of "unclaimed land" in South African colonial history. The "mfecane," Cobbing suggests, must be seen as a myth lying at the root of a set of interlocking assumptions and distortions that have seriously skewed our understanding of South African history.

The Rise and Fall of Development Theory

Colin Leys

This book is a "stock-taking" of development theory at the end of the 20th century. It argues that the assumptions on which development theory has rested since the 1950s no longer hold. A much broader based, more historical and more explicitly political theoretical effort is now called for.

African Material Culture

Edited by Mary Jo Arnoldi, Christraud M. Geary, and Kris L. Hardin

Fourteen interdisciplinary essays open new perspectives for understanding African societies and cultures through the contextualized study of objects, treating everything from the production of material objects to the meaning of sticks, masquerades, household tools, clothing, and the television set in the contemporary repertoire of African material culture.

Plundering Africa's Past

Edited by Peter R. Schmidt and Roderick J. McIntosh

African government and museum officials, members of international agencies, academics, and journalists examine why the African past is disappearing at a rate perhaps unmatched in any other part of the world. Each looks at the international network of looting and trafficking from a different perspective. Here, for the first time, is a frank indictment of African contributions to the problem—voiced by the distinguished African essayists. The book concludes with a discussion of specific steps that could halt the disappearance of Africa's art and antiquities.

The Epic of Askia Mohammed

Edited and translated by Thomas A. Hale

Askia Mohammed is the most famous leader in the history of the Songhay Empire, which reached its apogee during his reign from 1493–1528. The present rendition of the epic was narrated by the griot Nouhou Malio over two evenings in a small town on the Niger River. The text is a word-for-word translation from Nouhou Malio's oral performance.

Things As They Are

New Directions in Phenomenological Anthropology

Edited by Michael Jackson

In this timely collection, thirteen contemporary ethnographers demonstrate the importance of phenomenological and existential ideas for anthropology. In emphasizing the link between the empirical and the experiential, these ethnographers also explore the relationship between phenomenology and other theories of the lifeworld, such as existentialism, radical empiricism, and critical theory.

AFRICAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION

The African Studies Association (US) brings together persons with scholarly or professional interests in Africa, provides services to the Africanist community, and publishes and distributes Africanist materials. Members receive three publications:

African Studies Review, a multi-disciplinary scholarly journal, publishes original research, analyses of Africa and book reviews three times per year. Manuscripts are evaluated by anonymous peer reviewers in the appropriate field.

ASA News, a quarterly newsletter, reports events of interest to Africanists, including notices of conferences, employment and opportunities, and bibliographic aids.

Issue: A Journal of Opinion, a serious-popular, multi-disciplinary, biannual magazine, analyzes and criticizes contemporary policies on and within Africa.

THE IDEA OF AFRICA

V. Y. Mudimbe

"Mudimbe's sympathetic yet rigorous accounts of such diverse Africanist discourses as Herskovits's cultural relativism and contemporary Afrocentricity bring to the surface the underlying goals and contexts in which these were produced." —Ivan Karp

A sequel to his highly acclaimed The Invention of Africa, this is V. Y.

Mudimbe's exploration of how the "idea" of Africa was constructed by the Western world.

THE AFRICAN QUEST FOR FREEDOM AND IDENTITY

Cameroonian Writing and the National Experience

Richard Bjornson

A Choice Outstanding Academic Book of 1991

"Authoritative, comprehensive, and very readable, this eminently significant study reflects exacting and thorough scholarship, direct contact with African writers and scholars, and masterful treatment of a very complex subject. . . . This is a major work in the study of African national literatures, written in a style marked by clarity, continuity, insight, and a sympathetic, understanding approach." —Choice

"This is an ambitious and completely original work, and it will quickly become indispensable for anyone who is interested in Cameroonian and African literature or simply in the way in which the new cultures of the African continent are developing." —Transition

A HISTORY OF MOZAMBIQUE

Malyn Newitt

This book summarizes five hundred years of the history of the societies that exist within the area that became Mozambique in 1891. It also takes the story up to the present, including the War of Liberation and Mozambique after independence. A work of major scholarship.

MASS MEDIA IN SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA

Louise M. Bourgault

Louise Bourgault analyzes how historical, political, economic, social, cultural, and stylistic factors have shaped media products in African radio, television, and newspapers. She investigates three principal influences: the post-colonial legacy of the oral tradition, the presence of an alienated managerial class, and the domination of African nations by systems based on political patronage.
