The Interaction of Successive Motivational States within the Person

George Ainslie

This book examines an elementary human paradox: that we are endangered by our own wishes. Dr. Ainslie uses the results of behavioral experiments to show that there is a basic tendency for both lower animals and human beings to form preferences for the poorer but earlier of two goals, when the poorer goal is close at hand.

Essays on Philosophy and Economic Methodology

Daniel M. Hausman

This collection brings together the essays of one of the foremost American philosophers of economics. Cumulatively they offer fresh perspectives on foundational questions such as: what sort of science is economics? and how successful can economists be in acquiring knowledge of their subject matter?

Business Organization and the Myth of the Market Economy

William Lazonick

"Lazonick successfully marries economic theory (especially the work of Marx, Marshall, and Schumpeter) to the history of technology and business organization as exemplified in the books of David Landes and Alfred Chandler. He then applies this blend of insights to contemporary issues of economic growth in Japan and relative decline in Britain and America. The result is a controversial but richly informative analysis—almost an intellectual hand grenade tossed into contemporary discussions. It is hard to think of another scholar who could match the combination of boldness, graceful writing, and intellectual challenge that this book represents."

Economic Rights

Ellen Frankel Paul, Fred Miller, Jr., and Jeffrey Paul, Editors

The essays in this book explore the kinds of economic rights people should have, how they should be conceived and grounded, and the consequences that would ensue were one system or another set up to ensure them.

SCIENCE & SOCIETY

An Independent Journal of Marxism
Edited by David Laibman

Published quarterly since 1936, SCIENCE & SOCIETY has the distinction of being the first journal in the English language to address itself to the promotion of Marxist theoretical and empirical study. It has analyzed and contributed to contemporary Marxist thought — from the British social-relations-of-science movement of the 1930s, through the evolving reexaminations of the political economy of capitalism, to theories of third-world liberation, the unfolding challenges of existing socialism, and the emergence of a number of distinct schools within Marxism in the postwar decades.

ECONOMICS AND PHILOSOPHY

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Article contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to Economics and Philosophy, Department of Economics, Fernald House, Williams College, Williamstown, MA 01267, U.S.A. The journal's editorial office may also be accessed at BITNET address SMONTGOMERY@WILLIAMS or at ARPANET address SMONTGOMERY@VAX.CS.WILLIAMS.EDU. Please use for correspondence only.

Authors should send four copies of their manuscript and reserve one copy for their use in checking proofs. Articles must be in English. Spelling, capitalization, and punctuation must be consistent within each article and conform with the Thirteenth Edition of The Chicago Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press).

Books for review should be sent to the Book Review Editor: Professor Margaret Schabas, Department of Philosophy, York University, 4700 Keele Street, North York, Ontario, Canada M3J 1P3. Her BITNET address is SCHABAS@NEXUS.YORKU.CA.

Preparation of manuscript. A separate title page should be prepared carrying the article title, auxiliary short title (not over 50 characters), author's full name (in the form preferred for publication), and author's affiliation (including full mailing address and phone number). Because blind reviewing will be employed, authors are asked to identify themselves only on the title page.

The entire manuscript (including notes and references) should be typed double-spaced on 8½ by 11 inch or A4 paper, with wide margins for copy editing. Manuscript pages should be numbered consecutively.

Figures. If the manuscript is accepted for publication, the author must provide figures that are ready for photographic reproduction; they cannot be redrawn by the publisher, unless the author pays for the cost of such work. Charts, graphs, or other artwork must be drawn by a professional artist or computer generated on a laser printer, in black ink on white paper, and should remain legible after a 50% reduction. All labels and details on figures should be clearly printed (or done in transfer type of a sans-serif face such as Helvetica).

References and notes. Bibliographic citations in the text must include the author's last name and the date of publication and may include page references: (Bryant, 1980, pp. 335–44). When an author's name is part of the text, the following form should be used: "Bryant (1980, pp. 335–44) maintained that . . ." When a work by two or more authors is referred to, all names should be given in the first citation: (Kravis, Heston, and Summers, 1978), with subsequent citations of the form (Kravis et al., 1978). When separate works are referred to within the same parentheses, they should be listed in alphabetical order. Those by the same author should be separated by commas and those by different authors by semicolons: (Fuss and McFadden, 1978; Georgescu-Roegen, 1971, 1976).

Complete bibliographic information for each citation should be included in the list of references. References should be typed in alphabetic order using the style of the following examples:

- Arrow, Kenneth J. 1974. The Limits of Organization. New York: Norton.
- Bryant, John. 1980. "A Model of Reserves, Bank Runs, and Deposit Insurance." Journal of Banking and Finance 4:355–64.
- Fuss, Melvyn, and McFadden, Daniel (editors). 1978. Production Economics: A Dual Approach to Theory and Applications. Amsterdam: North Holland.
- Georgescu-Roegen, 1976. "Chamberlain's New Economics and the Unit of Production." In Monopolistic Competition Theory: Studies in Impact, edited by Robert E. Kuenne, pp. 31–62. New York: Wiley.

Titles of journals may not be abbreviated.

When more than an in-text citation is called for, footnotes may be used. These should be numbered consecutively throughout the text and typed at the bottom of the page in which they are cited. Source citations within footnotes follow the same style as citations in text.

Copyediting and proofreading. The publishers reserve the right to copyedit and proofread all articles accepted for publication, but authors will be consulted in the case of any substantial changes. Page proofs of each article will be sent to the lead author for correction of typographical errors only.

General. The lead author will receive 25 offprints of his or her article free of charge; additional numbers may be purchased if ordered at proof stage. Submission of an article implies that it has not been published elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission to publish material for which they do not own the copyright. Contributors will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press.
