A new translation of a major work of Islamic literature

In the Baburnama, Babur, a descendant of Genghis Khan and a refined, educated, and well-travelled prince, left behind an unparalleled memoir of his life and times—the central document most often quoted by historians and scholars of Mughal India. Now, Wheeler M. Thackston, Jr., has provided a sparkling new translation, in an exquisitely illustrated and produced edition that faithfully preserves the spirit and beauty of the original work.

Translated directly from Babur's Chaghatay Turkish, here is not only an extraordinarily detailed picture of life in Central Asia and India during the late fifteenth and early sixteenth centuries, but also the first real autobiography in Islamic literature, in which Babur provides keen insights into his own personality, frank assessments of the deeds and motivations of the people with whom he dealt, and keys to understanding the rise and development of Islamic culture.

Writing and literacy in Chinese, Korean and Japanese

Insup Taylor
 AND M. Martin Taylor

漢字 かな
 字 글 나

The peoples of China, Korea, and Japan make up a quarter of the world population. They use a variety of unique and fascinating writing systems: logographic Chinese characters of ancient origin, as well as phonetic systems of syllabaries and alphabets. This new book describes, often in comparison with English, how the Chinese, Korean and Japanese writing systems originated and developed; how each relates to its spoken language; how it is learned or taught; how it can be computerized; and how it relates to the past and present literacy, education, and culture of its users.

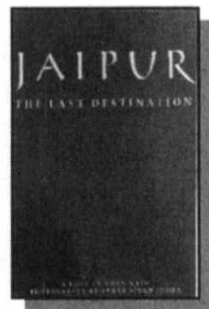

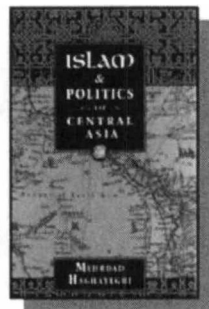

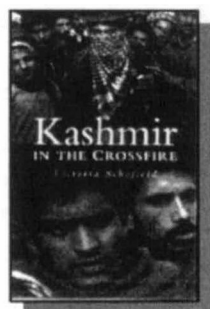

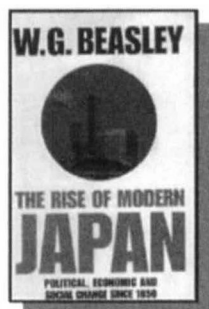

Intimately familiar with the three East Asian cultures, the authors have written an accessible and highly readable book. Writing and Literacy in Chinese, Korean and Japanese is intended for academic readers (students in East Asian Studies, linguistics, education, psychology) as well as for the general public (parents, business, government).

MEIJI REVISITED

The Sites of Victorian Japan

by Dallas Finn

"This careful study provides a wonderful visual inventory of the world that Western architects brought and Japanese architects transformed in the nineteenth century. For many Japanese, Western-style buildings constituted the first direct contact with the modern world—one that was Victorian in its tastes and trappings—and contributed a vigorous and exotic splendor to the Rising Sun of Imperial Japan."

JAPANESE POLICYMAKING

THE POLITICS BEHIND POLITICS

Informal Mechanisms and the Making of China Policy

Quansheng Zhao

Japan's policymaking is of considerable worldwide interest. Quansheng Zhao offers new insights into Sino-Japanese relations, and draws broader lessons for Japan's international relations through four case studies of Japanese policies towards China. These include the watershed 1972 Sino-Japanese rapprochement, and Japan's foreign aid policy towards China before and after the Tiananmen tragedy of 1989. He discusses kuromaku (informal organizations or political actors), tsukiai (social connections), and nemawashi (behind-the-scenes preparations), and shows their effect on policy through detailed empirical analysis.

"Zhao's work makes a major contribution to the field, and should be welcomed by graduate and under-graduate students - R. Vohra, Trinity College" (quoted from CHOICE)

Failure of Charisma

The Cultural Revolution in Wuhan

WANG SHAOGUANG

Mao's failure to control the Cultural Revolution he unleashed is vividly exemplified by the case of Wuhan, a city plagued by factional violence, paralysed by workers' strikes, and once officially condemned as a nest of 'counter-revolutionary rebellion'. This is the first book to provide an in-depth analysis of micro-politics in Wuhan from 1966 to 1976, and the first to examine the far-reaching theoretical implications of mass behaviour there.

Wang Shaoguang fills a critical gap in the academic literature with his original empirical contribution, which is based on never-before-published archival data, personal interviews with more than 85 former political activists and correspondence from his years as a Red Guard in Wuhan.

He employs the case of Wuhan to unlock one of the great paradoxes of Cultural Revolution behaviour: if millions participated as 'true believers' of Mao, then why did they carry their power struggles beyond Mao's dictates, and how could he fail to regain control over the movement? This study demonstrates that Mao's charisma failed because his believers pursued, wherever possible (and in his name), their own gains and interests.

THE BOOK OF CHANG TZU

Translated by Martin Palmer with Elizabeth Breuilly, Chang Wai Ming, and Jay Ramsay

Introduction by Martin Palmer

Drawing together the stories, tales, jokes, and anecdotes that have gathered around the figure of Chang Tzu, this new, complete translation of the classic Taoist text ignores logic and philosophical clarity to make Confucian earnestness and the pretensions of the government the frequent targets of its humor. 464 pp.

Traders and Raiders on China's Northern Frontier

Jenny F. So and
Emma C. Bunker

Recent archaeological discoveries along the northern border on both sides of China's Great Wall reveal centuries of flourishing contact between the northern pastoral tribes and their more, settled urban neighbors. This lavishly illustrated volume seeks to clarify the complex interrelationships of these ancient neighboring societies by exploring their works of art and the effects of commerce and migration on the production of everyday and luxury goods.

Boundaries in China

Edited by John Hay

Boundary making, a crucial element in human cultural creativity, links these essays exploring Chinese art and society. The essays range from the creation of the first political and bureaucratic boundaries in early China to the dismantling of discursive boundaries in the post-Mao era. Spanning diverse subjects, moving between ancient funerary art and modern Peking Opera, they deftly explore the psychodynamics of Chinese society.

THE INSTITUTE OF EAST ASIAN POLITICAL ECONOMY

RESEARCH FELLOWS

Applications are invited from suitably qualified scholars who can do good empirical and policy-oriented research, based on sound scholarship, on the People's Republic of China, particularly her attempt at economic, social and political reforms since 1979.

Applicants should have good social sciences training in the broad fields of economics, sociology, political science and law. Intellectual maturity and a good command of English are important prerequisites. Actual working experience in China would be an additional asset. Successful candidates will be offered an initial contract of two years which is renewable. They will be expected to assume duties as soon as possible.

Salaries offered will be within the range: Gross S$44,460–S$150,460 per annum depending on qualifications and experience. (The exchange rate is about S$1 = US$0.69). In addition, research fellows enjoy benefits which include subsidized housing and medical care and education allowance for their children.

The Institute of East Asian Political Economy (IEAPE) is an independent, non-profit research organization set up for the study of contemporary East Asian societies in their modernization processes. It has a library and computer database with a comprehensive collection of material on contemporary China. Currently the Institute's major research focus is on modern China.

A letter of application together with a detailed curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three academic referees and samples of publications should be sent to:

Director
The Institute of East Asian Political Economy
Arts & Social Sciences Faculty

THE NATIONAL UNIVERSITY of SINGAPORE

Founded 1905

Faculty Of Arts And Social Sciences

Applications for teaching appointments are invited under the Masters in Southeast Asian Studies Programme of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. Candidates should possess a PhD degree and must be able to teach in one (and preferably two) of the following areas:

Vietnamese language, literature and culture
Country studies of Southeast Asia with focus on Indochina
Political Economy of Southeast Asia
Public Policy Analysis with special emphasis on Southeast Asia
People, Places and Cultures of Southeast Asia

Besides appointments on normal 3-year contracts, visiting appointments for one or two years will also be considered. Successful candidates will be expected to conduct not only graduate courses but some undergraduate courses as well. In addition, they will have to be prepared to hold classes in the evenings for the graduate courses.

Gross annual emoluments range as follows:

Lecturer	S$ 56,920 - 72,580
Senior lecturer	S$ 66,320 - 129,600
Associate Professor	S$ 114,870 - 159,760

(US$1.00 = S$1.42 approximately)

The commencing salary will depend on the candidate's qualifications, experience and the level of appointment offered. In addition, a 13th month Annual Allowance (of one month's salary) and an Annual Variable Component (of normally 2 months' salary) may be payable at year end, under the flexible wage system, to staff on normal contracts.

Leave and medical benefits will be provided. Depending on the type of contract offered, other benefits may include: provident fund benefits or an end-of-contract gratuity, a settling-in allowance, subsidised housing or a housing allowance, education allowance for up to three children subject to a maximum of S$16,425 per annum per child, passage assistance and baggage allowance for the transportation of personal effects to Singapore. Staff members may undertake consultation work, subject to the approval of the University, and retain consultation fees up to a maximum of 60% of their gross annual emoluments in a calendar year.

All academic staff will be given a networked personal computer (Pentium or Macintosh Power PC) with access to a Cray supercomputer, UNIX hosts, departmental laser printers, a wide spectrum of software, on-line library catalogue, CD-ROM databases, Teleview, INtv and Internet.

Application forms and further information on terms and conditions of service may be obtained from:
